1. Introduction

1.1 Scope

This policy applies to all pupils, including those in the Early Years.

1.2 Purpose

Pupils need knowledge and skills that will enable them to make informed and ethical decisions about their wellbeing, health and relationships.

High quality, evidence-based teaching of relationships, sex and health education (RSHE) will:

- prepare pupils for the opportunities and responsibilities of adult life
- promote pupils' moral, social, mental and physical development.
- support pupils to cultivate positive characteristics including resilience, self-worth, self-respect, honesty, integrity, courage, kindness, and trustworthiness
- support prevention of harms by helping pupils understand and identify when things are not right

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that our RSHE programme supports our school ethos and fulfils our school aims, which are defined as:

- to enable every pupil to thrive by developing the knowledge, confidence and self-awareness needed to build healthy relationships, make informed choices and support their physical, emotional and mental wellbeing.
- to promote respectful interactions by fostering kindness, empathy, equality and an understanding of individual differences, enabling pupils to develop positive and respectful relationships with others.
- to encourage pupils to endeavour and become resilient by equipping them with the skills to manage challenges, recognise and respond to risk, seek appropriate support and make responsible decisions as they grow towards adulthood.

- to prepare pupils to be future ready by developing confident, informed and responsible young people who understand their rights and responsibilities, can navigate relationships and an increasingly digital world safely, and are equipped to contribute positively to their communities.

1.3 Curriculum (for more information, see below Section 6)

RSHE forms part of the school curriculum. We see the curriculum as:

‘The total learning experience for our pupils, which includes not only the taught lessons but also the routines, behaviours, events, activities and other opportunities that pupils experience on a daily, weekly and yearly basis in order to ensure that all of them make the best progress possible and attain high standards’.

A well-structured and coherent curriculum is a fundamental element of the tripartite education that underpins all successful schools and includes:

Teaching, Learning, and Assessment which is underpinned by Wellbeing.

The RSHE programme is taught through, but not limited to, dedicated lessons, supporting activities in form times, assemblies, and the use of visiting speakers (see Section 5 for more information about Delivery).

Aspects of RSHE are also infused within the day-to-day operation of our school; incorporated through the curriculum, both in content included in subject schemes of work and through other planned learning opportunities in the school. They are captured in our written aims and expressed in the ethos and behaviours of everyone.

1.4 Aims of our RSHE Programme

The aims of our RSHE programme at our school are to enable pupils to:

- have a clear understanding of appropriate relationships and the laws surrounding these
- learn how to adopt healthy nurturing relationships of all kinds, not just intimate relationships, understanding that healthy relationships are an important part of wellbeing
- learn about age-appropriate topics to aid them to work out a personal morality and value system, respecting cultural, religious and family background
- understand the importance of inclusivity and respect for diversity in today’s modern society, through an understanding of, but not limited to, protected characteristics/equivalent, such as, but not limited to disabilities, religious beliefs, sexual orientations, and age
- develop an age-appropriate understanding of physical, mental, sexual, and emotional health and the ways to recognise when adjustments and improvements are needed and how
- explore and understand their feelings, attitudes and values and those of others, and to address legal, moral and social questions relevant to forming healthy, enjoyable and fulfilling relationships
- develop confidence and self-belief in their ability to achieve their aspirations, and the self-awareness to make informed choices about future life decisions

- equip them with the ability to deal with a range of spiritual, moral, cultural and political issues, through articulating themselves sensitively and thoughtfully, along with the ability to empathise and sympathise with the views of others
- make decisions from knowledge, using critical thinking
- how and where to get further support, and advice if required

Our RSHE programme will fulfil our statutory duties (below), promote pupil engagement with the Fundamental British Values; and as part of this to encourage pupils to have respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis in which the law is made and applied in England.

2. Relevant Requirements and Related Policies

2.1 This policy is underpinned by the following:

Related Policies

The policy must be read in conjunction with the following school policies:

- Anti- Bullying Policy
- Curriculum Policy
- Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy
- SEND Policy
- IT Policy
- Drugs and Alcohol Policy
- Behaviour Policy
- Health and Safety Policy

Compulsory requirements

Sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act (2017) make Relationships Education compulsory for all pupils receiving primary education.

Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) are also compulsory for all pupils receiving secondary education.

Personal, Social, Health and Economic education (PSHE) continues to be compulsory in independent schools.

Parents/carers have the right to request that their child be withdrawn from some or all of sex education delivered as part of statutory RSHE (see below Section 9).

3. Policy Development

3.1 Effective RSHE is important for promoting and protecting the wellbeing of all pupils.

The school is committed to working closely with parents/carers to deliver high quality meaningful RSHE. This is because as primary carers, parents are uniquely placed to discuss these issues with their children whilst maintaining the culture and ethos of their family.

The school will seek to work in partnership with parents/carers to enable them to feel confident about the school's RSHE programme, including that it will be delivered sensitively and inclusively, respecting all backgrounds and beliefs.

Following the central review by Cognita (the proprietor), this policy is developed by the school in consultation with parents/carers, pupils, and staff. Listening and responding to the views of pupils and parents/carers helps to ensure that our RSHE programme meets pupils' needs and that topics are taught at the right time to support pupils to build positive relationships and avoid harms before they occur.

The policy development process involves the following steps:

3.2 Parent/carers

At Downsends we have sent parents:

- the planned RSHE programme (scheme of work) for their child's year group
- newsletters with RSHE content within them
- a representative sample of the resources that the school will be using
- signposting to organisation that may support them

Previously Downsends has Invited parents into school to discuss and explore:

- the curriculum content in the RSHE programme (scheme of work)
- the resources that are going to be used in lessons
- the importance of RSHE for their child's wellbeing and safety
- any concerns that have arisen as an outcome of any RSHE topics
- how they can manage conversations with their child (ren) about RSHE topics

3.3 Pupils

Pupils were asked:

- for feedback at the end of RSHE modules and again at the end of the academic year
- about their experience of RSHE in the Downsends PSHE Review at the end of the academic year

3.4 Staff

Staff responsible for delivering RSHE are provided with regular opportunities to review the curriculum and feedback.

3.5 Ratification

In light of parent, pupil, and/or staff feedback, this policy was modified where appropriate. A new finance module was included following pupil review in 2025-26 and will be further developed 2026-27.

Once amendments were made, this policy was approved by the school Managing Director (Chair of Governors), and made available via the school website.

Free copies of this policy are also held in the Hub on Cognita Connect for consultation by parents/carers.

Parents/carers may also email the school at Admin@downsend.co.uk to request hard copies which can be made freely available in large print or other accessible format if required.

4. Roles and Responsibilities

4.1 The Chair of Governors (Managing Director)

The Chair of Governors (MD) will hold the Headteacher to account for the implementation of this policy during governance meetings.

The Chair of Governors will ensure that:

- all pupils make progress in achieving the expected educational outcomes
- the subjects are well led, effectively managed and well planned
- the quality of provision is subject to regular and effective self-evaluation
- teaching is delivered in ways that are accessible to all pupils with SEND (see below)
- teaching is sensitive to the needs of all pupils with protected characteristics
- clear information is provided for parents/carers on the subject content and the right to request that their child is withdrawn
- the subjects are resourced, staffed and timetabled in a way that ensures that the school can fulfil its legal obligations

4.2 The Headteacher

The Headteacher is responsible for ensuring that RSHE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory/non-science components of RSHE. They are also responsible for ensuring that all those teaching RSHE subject matter have had the appropriate training and receive support.

4.3 Leaders of RSHE

The RSHE programme is led by the Sectional PSHE Lead (s) who work in conjunction with all staff to ensure there is a spiral programme throughout the school. A spiral programme ensures that topics gradually increase in content and depth to match the growing needs and understanding of pupils.

The RSHE Lead will need to work closely with colleagues in related curriculum areas to ensure the subjects complement and do not duplicate content covered in curriculum subjects. The RSHE Lead will look for opportunities across other curriculum subjects to reinforce concepts introduced in RSHE, for example discussing misogyny in the context of history or using examples in literature to discuss positive and less positive examples of relationships.

4.4 Staff

All staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSHE in a sensitive way
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSHE
- Monitoring pupil progress
- Responding to the needs of individual pupils, including any safeguarding concerns that arise
- Responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory/non-science components of RSHE.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSHE.

Staff who have concerns about teaching RSHE are encouraged to discuss this with the Headteacher.

5. Delivery of the RSHE Programme

5.1 Curriculum

For more information about our Curriculum, please see our separate Curriculum Policy.

Please also refer to the RHSE topic content which can be found in the Appendices.

The RSHE curriculum will be delivered as part of a whole school approach to wellbeing and positive relationships, supported by other school policies, including, but not limited to the Behaviour Policy and the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

5.2 Approach

The school is committed to creating a safe and supportive learning environment where RSHE is taught.

A strong rapport is built with the staff member through a positive classroom atmosphere of mutual respect and where no question or comment is dismissed or disregarded, which allows for open discussions and sharing of knowledge without judgement.

Staff are encouraged to create a partnership agreement i.e. ground rules with their pupils at the start of each academic year and to refer to it when necessary. Pupils are expected to consider others' needs by respectfully and sensitively listening and abiding by the above agreement.

Lessons are introduced and structured by staff to ensure that respectful listening occurs. This is set up at the start of each topic and reiterated when required.

5.3 Staff Training

Staff who deliver the RSHE curriculum have the knowledge, skills and confidence to create a safe and supportive environment and to facilitate participative and interactive education which aims to support and not to alarm pupils.

Training is provided to all RSHE staff and is coordinated by the Sectional Head of PSHE. This is a combination of internal training and sharing of best practice as well as external courses where appropriate. Staff also have access to the resources created by the PSHE Association.

New staff are provided with all-round training to enhance their skills within the classroom.

More experienced staff are provided with bespoke training to develop their skills further.

All staff delivering the RSE curriculum receive appropriate assistance within lessons where needed.

The RSE programme is taught by specialist and experienced teachers with subject expertise, to maintain high standards of provision and compliance with statutory requirements

RSHE teaching will be supported by consultation of the teachers, subject leads, and the Senior Leadership Team to ensure the programme is relevant to pupils and reinforcement is timely.

- Staff delivering RSHE receive appropriate training and guidance to ensure they have secure subject knowledge, understand the statutory RSHE requirements and are confident in delivering the curriculum in an age-appropriate and inclusive way.
- Staff are supported to teach sensitive and potentially challenging topics safely, including relationships, sexual health, consent, abuse, exploitation, online safety, mental health, substance misuse, gender, sexuality and other areas where pupils may have differing experiences, beliefs or vulnerabilities.
- Training reinforces clear safeguarding procedures, including how to manage disclosures, respond to unexpected or inappropriate questions, establish appropriate classroom boundaries and refer concerns promptly to the Designated Safeguarding Lead in accordance with the school's safeguarding procedures.
- The Head of PSHE/RSHE provides ongoing curriculum guidance, resources and opportunities for staff to discuss forthcoming topics, with additional training or specialist input arranged where required. Staff are expected to use approved, evidence-informed resources and to seek advice where they do not feel sufficiently confident or knowledgeable to deliver particular content.
- Staff are trained to create a safe learning environment by establishing clear ground rules, using appropriate and respectful language, avoiding personal disclosure and ensuring that discussion does not encourage pupils to disclose sensitive personal information in a public classroom setting.
- Staff are reminded that RSHE should be delivered objectively and sensitively, taking account of pupils' age, maturity, SEND, cultural and religious backgrounds and individual vulnerabilities, while ensuring that teaching remains consistent with statutory guidance, safeguarding expectations and the Equality Act 2010.
- Professional development is reviewed in response to changes in statutory guidance, emerging safeguarding themes and identified needs within the school community. Where appropriate, the school may draw upon specialist professionals, such as the School Nurse, counsellor, safeguarding professionals or appropriately vetted external organisations, to support staff training and curriculum delivery.

5.4 The law

There will be a range of opinions regarding some topics within RSHE. Therefore, the starting principle should be that applicable law should be taught in a factual way so that pupils are clear about their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

Pupils will be made aware of the relevant legal provisions associated to country in which their school is located, when relevant topics are being taught, including for example those relating to:

- marriage, including forced marriage and civil partnerships
- consent, including the age of consent
- domestic abuse, stalking, coercive and controlling behaviour, rape, sexual offences, female genital mutilation (FGM), 'virginity testing' and hymenoplasty
- sexual abuse, harassment and exploitation, including public sexual harassment and harmful sexual behaviour
- the Online Safety Act
- online behaviours including image and information sharing (including self-generated intimate sexual imagery/videos, including those generated by AI e.g. deepfakes). Pupils should understand the law about online sexual harassment and online sexual abuse including grooming and sextortion.
- pornography
- abortion
- protected characteristics/equivalent (for example, age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation)
- alcohol, smoking, vaping and nicotine products and illicit drug use
- gambling
- carrying knives and weapons
- extremism/radicalisation
- grooming or exploiting children into criminal activity, which can include gang involvement and county lines drug running
- hate crime
- the age of criminal responsibility
- medical consent
- parental responsibility
- Gillick competence

5.5 Equal Opportunities

Under the provisions of the Equality Act (2010), schools are required to comply with relevant requirements of the Equality Act 2010, including the Public sector equality duty \(PSED\) (s.149), when teaching RSHE.

The school will not unlawfully discriminate against pupils because of their protected characteristics/equivalent, for example: age, sex, race, disability, religion or belief, gender reassignment, pregnancy or maternity, marriage or civil partnership, or sexual orientation. The school is proud of its inclusive culture, and supports, embraces, celebrates and promotes the needs/ interests of all members of the community.

As such, the RSHE programme is accessible for all pupils. High quality teaching that is differentiated and personalised will be the starting point to ensure this accessibility.

The sectional head of PSHE ensures the RSHE programme is continually updated and relevant to the current needs of pupils. This is done through feedback and discussions with pupils, PSHE Association recommendations, guidance from the government or local bodies, advice from the Cognita Regional Safeguarding Lead (Europe and USA), and keeping up to date with current news.

Vulnerabilities

The School is aware that some pupils may be more emotionally vulnerable than others in different lessons, for example, due to the death or serious illness of a close relative, mental health issues, previous trauma, and/or other safeguarding concerns. Staff are informed in these instances by leadership, (including the DSL) and approaches to learning will be adapted for those pupils where needed. Topics to be covered will be scrutinised before lessons take place in order to identify any sensitivities related to specific pupils.

Parents/carers and the individual pupils will also be notified and supported if there are any potentially challenging topics, so that they can speak with the staff member if they have any concerns. Strategies will be put in place before, during, and following any relevant sessions to ensure the safety and emotional wellbeing of these vulnerable pupils. In some exceptional cases, where the topic has the potential to be particularly triggering for an individual pupil, a decision will be made in partnership with their parents/carers, that the pupil will be excused from a specific lesson, and receive the content in a safe one to one session so that they can receive bespoke support.

SEND

The school ensures that pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) requirements are known to RSHE teachers and that these are taken into consideration in the planning and delivery of lessons. Staff are aware that pupils with SEND may be more vulnerable than their peers to the continuum of sexual behaviours, child-on-child abuse, exploitation and violence, and other issues. RSHE can be particularly important for these pupils, particularly those with social, emotional and mental health needs or learning disabilities.

Further details of our SEND provision can be found in our Special Educational Needs and Disability (SEND) Policy.

Fundamental British Values

Respect for the Fundamental British Values are central to the design of our RSHE programme and are interwoven throughout sessions.

The Fundamental British Values are:

1. Democracy
2. The rule of law
3. Individual liberty
4. Mutual respect

Family Life

The school will be sensitive to pupils' circumstances, recognising that families of many forms provide a nurturing environment for children, and can include single parent families, same-sex parents, families headed by grandparents, young carers, kinship carers, adoptive parents and foster parents/carers. Teaching will illustrate a wide range of family structures in a positive way, and care will be taken to ensure that pupils are not stigmatised based on their home circumstances.

Religion

Teaching will be sensitive to the religious background of pupils.

The schools will comply with the relevant provisions of the Equality Act 2010, under which religion or belief are amongst the protected characteristics.

Gender

Pupils will learn about all protected characteristics/equivalent, including the facts and the law about biological sex and gender reassignment. This will help them understand and recognise that people have legal rights by virtue of their biological sex which are different from the rights of those of the opposite sex with the protected characteristic of gender reassignment. Pupils will also be taught to recognise that people with the protected characteristic of gender reassignment have protection from discrimination and should be treated with respect and dignity.

In teaching this, the staff will be mindful that, beyond the facts and the law about biological sex and gender reassignment, there is ongoing and significant debate. Therefore, staff must:

- not endorse any particular view
- not teach as fact that all people have a gender identity
- avoid language and activities which repeat or enforce gender stereotypes
- not promote any politically partisan views or ideological standpoints

- be mindful to avoid any suggestion that social transition is a simple solution to feelings of distress or discomfort
- avoid resources that use cartoons or diagrams that oversimplify the topic, that could be interpreted as being aimed at younger pupils, and/or that perpetuate stereotypes or encourage pupils to question their gender
- consult parents/carers on the content of external resources on this topic in advance and make all materials available to them on request

Addressing the continuum of sexual behaviours

Please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy for further information.

Preventing the continuum of more harmful sexual behaviours starts from the support pupils receive in the primary stage through RSHE programmes. Supporting pupils to develop the skills they need to build healthy relationships is part of a whole school approach and underpin schools' policies, including behaviour and safeguarding, to ensure that an ethos of kindness and respect is evident throughout the school.

Within the sequenced RHSE programme, pupils will be taught in an age-appropriate way to understand that anyone can be a victim of problematic sexual behaviour, harmful sexual behaviour, sexual harassment and/or sexual violence, regardless of sex, sexual orientation, gender reassignment or any other protected characteristic/equivalent. Staff will clearly explain that the victim of such behaviours is never to blame.

It is important to acknowledge that most sexual violence is committed against women and girls, and it often has a gendered component – for example, manifesting an inequality of power between men and women. However, anyone can be affected by sexual violence, and staff will avoid language which stigmatises boys or suggests that boys or men are always perpetrators or that girls or women are always victims.

Both within and beyond the classroom, staff will be conscious of everyday sexism, misogyny, homo/bi/trans phobia and stereotypes, and will take action to build a culture where prejudice is identified and challenged.

Pupils will be:

- taught to understand the importance of challenging harmful beliefs and attitudes and the links between sexism and misogyny and violence against women and girls. Where misogynistic ideas are expressed at school, staff will challenge the ideas, rather than the pupil expressing them.
- given opportunities to develop positive conceptions of masculinity and femininity, including how to identify and learn from positive male role models. It is important for pupils to understand that most boys and young men are respectful to girls and young women and each other.

Pupils may be exposed to online content which normalises harmful or violent sexual behaviours, which might include sexist and misogynistic influencers who normalise sexual harassment, violence and abuse. Pupils may be more vulnerable to this content when they have low self-esteem, are being bullied, or have other challenges in their lives. Staff will encourage pupils to consider how this content may be harmful to both men and women, while avoiding stigmatising or perpetuating harmful stereotypes about boys, and avoiding directly signposting to specific content and content producers.

It is important for pupils to understand that ethical behaviour in friendships and other relationships goes beyond respecting boundaries and consent, and that strong relationships of all types involve kindness and care. RSHE lessons will be clear that all sexual activity should involve kindness, care, attention to the needs and vulnerabilities of the other person and an awareness of the power dynamics that can exist within relationships.

RSHE lessons will ensure that both boys and girls have opportunities to practise respectful communication and understand experiences which are different from their own, including menstruation and menopause. However, in some cases, such as when a school identifies a specific need, the school may consider that separating classes by sex is the best way to create a safe space for discussion of a particular topic. This will be done in a way that avoids stigmatising boys or making girls feel like they will inevitably be victims of abusive behaviour or that it is their responsibility to protect themselves.

5.6 Prior Knowledge

The school will cover all RSHE curriculum topics, recognising that pupils can start developing healthy behaviour and relationship skills as soon as they start school. Knowledge and understanding are ensured and built on through a well-sequenced curriculum from Year Reception through to Year 13.

The school will sequence teaching so that pupils are supported and equipped with the knowledge to navigate different experiences in a positive way before they occur, and to prevent harms. However the school is aware that all pupils may come into lessons with differing prior knowledge and experiences. Pupils are encouraged, where appropriate (and in an appropriate manner) to share their understanding of different topics discussed, in order (only) to aid the learning of others and build confidence in participation.

5.7 Teaching Methods

The RSHE programme will be taught through a range of teaching methods, including, but not limited to:

- Discussion
- Debate
- Circle time
- Power point presentations
- Videos
- Photographs
- Relatable examples, linking to other parts of the School curriculum
- Visiting Speakers (see below 5.8)
- Online Materials (Common Sense)

5.8 Visiting Speakers

Please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy for procedures around Visiting Speakers.

The Headteacher (only) will authorise, following a robust due diligence and vetting process, visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses or sexual health professionals, to provide support and training to staff teaching RSHE and/or to deliver certain RSHE lessons to pupils. The school will not use resources from any individual or organisation who hold partisan views on contested topics.

Contractual Restrictions

When contracting with visiting speakers, the school will not agree to any contractual restrictions on showing parents any content that the school will use. The school will communicate to providers that they are legally obliged to have regard to statutory guidance, including the expectation that all content can be shared with parents/carers. Where contractual clauses exist that seek to prevent schools sharing any material at all with parents/carers, they are void and unenforceable. This is because they contradict the clear public policy interest of ensuring that parents/carers are aware of what their children are being taught in RSHE.

Copyright

Where copyright law applies, schools must comply with it when sharing resources with parents/carers. It is best practice to share materials via a “parent portal” or, if this is not possible, through a presentation. When the school makes documents available to parents/carers, they will acknowledge the provider’s authorship. The school will include a statement that parents/carers agree to as a condition of access, in that the content should not be copied or shared further except as authorised under copyright law. Where relevant and possible, IT systems will also be in place to prevent downloading.

5.9 Timetabling

RSHE lessons frequency is as follows:

Year 1 + 2 - 1 hour a week
Year 3-6 – 0.5 hour a week
Year 7 – 1 hour a week
Year 8 – 1 hour every two weeks
Year 9 – 1 hour a week
Year 10+11 - 1 hour every two weeks
Year 12+13 – 1 hour every week

5.10 Assessment

The school assesses pupils' learning and progression in RSHE through a variety of different methods, appropriate to the material being taught and the age of the pupils. Assessment styles include, but are not limited to:

- Baseline assessment – short activities at the start of a topic to establish pupils' existing knowledge, understanding, attitudes and misconceptions.
- Questioning and discussion – structured questioning, class discussion and teacher observation to assess understanding during lessons.
- Scenario-based assessment – pupils apply their learning to age-appropriate situations, case studies or dilemmas and explain appropriate choices or responses.
- Knowledge checks and quizzes – low-stakes quizzes, matching activities, true/false questions or retrieval tasks to assess key factual knowledge.
- Reflection activities – pupils identify what they have learned, how their understanding has developed and where they may need further information.
- Self-assessment – pupils assess their confidence, knowledge or ability to apply particular skills before and after a unit of learning.
- Peer discussion and collaborative tasks – paired or group activities which allow pupils to demonstrate understanding and explore different perspectives.
- Written or creative responses – short written tasks, mind maps, posters, presentations, advice responses or other appropriate activities demonstrating learning.
- Exit tickets – brief end-of-lesson questions used to identify key learning, misconceptions or areas requiring further teaching.
- End-of-unit assessment – activities which revisit the initial baseline and assess progress in knowledge, understanding and application.

Assessment is primarily intended to identify progress in knowledge, understanding and skills, rather than to grade pupils' personal beliefs, experiences or values

These various methods of assessing pupils' engagement with RSHE provide vital feedback to the staff on their progress, giving a basis to provide individual support where necessary.

5.11 Intended Outcomes

As a result of our RSHE programme, pupils will both now, and in their future lives:

- Understand the importance of inclusivity and respect for diversity
- Be able to use their critical thinking and have the knowledge to make informed life choices
- Be aware of their bodies and their rights
- Know and understand the need for healthy eating and exercise
- Understand the range of feelings and emotions they may encounter
- Be able to recognise when and how to ask for help and/or advice when needed
- Be confident in themselves and strive to reach their aspirations
- Develop skills to deal with a range of different situations sympathetically and sensitively
- Understand the importance of listening to others
- Understand how they play a part of society
- Understand how their conduct affects others
- Be aware of dangers
- Know how to stay safe both online and offline
- Develop life skills to enable them to continue to develop and grow
- Learn about Fundamental British Values

6. Curriculum Content

6.1 Primary- Relationships Education

Please see Appendix 2 for full topic content

The focus for primary relationships education will be on teaching the skills and knowledge that form the building blocks of all positive relationships, supporting pupils from the start of their education to grow into kind, caring adults who have respect for others and know how to keep themselves and others safe.

Building pupils' understanding and skills at primary is essential for preparing them for more complex content at the secondary stage of their education. For example, in primary, pupils will learn skills for managing difficult feelings in their friendships, like disappointment or anger. This prepares them to reflect on how to behave with kindness in more complex or challenging relationships at secondary. Our primary relationships education will be anchored in an understanding of positive relationships, but will also equip pupils to keep themselves and others safe, and to recognise and report risks and abuse, including online. This will be delivered by focusing on boundaries, privacy, and children's rights over their own bodies and personal information.

Everyone has relationships with others, and most pupils will develop sexual relationships at some point in their lives. Relationships education will equip pupils with the knowledge and skills they need to act with kindness and respect in all their relationships as they grow into adulthood, to enjoy their relationships, and to keep themselves and others safe.

Relationships Education will focus on how to form and sustain positive relationships but will also help pupils identify risks and harms. Relationships Education may therefore include topics related to preventing sexual abuse, for example, or avoiding sharing inappropriate material online. This will be done without describing the detail of any sexual activity involved.

Similarly, good safeguarding practice requires pupils to understand the correct terms for different parts of the body and to be able to confidently use these terms. This will be provided as part of Health Education in the primary stage, without describing any detail of sexual activity.

Pupils will be taught, in an age appropriate way to recognise emotional, physical and sexual abuse. Even very young pupils can be equipped to understand what counts as abusive behaviour and to trust their instincts about behaviour that does not feel right. In addition, pupils will be supported to understand about bullying, and that this can include the use of derogatory terms relating to sex, race, religion, disability or sexual orientation. Pupils will be taught how to report concerns and seek advice.

While teaching pupils how to stay safe, including online, pupils will be introduced to protective and preventative content in a way that does not cause unreasonable alarm and does not appear to normalise risky behaviours or activities. For example, in late primary, the school may decide to discuss pressure to share naked images if this is affecting pupils in the school. There may also be cases, such as when they know that pupils have seen pornography, in which the school may feel the need to discuss online sexual content. All teaching will be age appropriate and respectful of all pupils, including those who may have no familiarity with the topics under discussion.

The schools will inform parents/carers of any deviation from this published RSHE Policy in advance and share any relevant materials with them on request.

6.2 Primary- Sex Education

Sex Education is not compulsory in primary schools, but the UK government recommends that primaries teach sex education in Years 5 and/or 6, in line with content about conception and birth, which forms part of the curriculum for science. The curriculum for Science includes subject content in related areas to conception and birth, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals. Schools may also cover human reproduction in Science lessons, but where they do so, this should be in line with the factual description of conception in the science curriculum.

The school will consult parents/carers about the content of anything that will be taught within Science that involves aspects of Sex Education. This process will include offering parents/carers support in talking to their children about sex education and how to link this with what is being taught in school, as well as advice about parents' right to request withdrawal from sex education (see Section 9).

6.3 Secondary - Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) See Appendix 3 for full topic content.

RSHE in the secondary stage will:

- provide a clear progression from primary Relationships Education
- provide pupils with the information they need to develop healthy, safe and nurturing relationships of all kinds
- include the knowledge they need in later life to keep themselves and others safe, and how to avoid sexually transmitted infections and unplanned pregnancies
- focus on respect for oneself and others and does not encourage or normalise early sexual experimentation
- enable pupils to make their own choices about whether or when to develop safe, fulfilling and healthy sexual relationships, once they reach the age of consent, and to resist pressure to have sex
- be participative and interactive and will give pupils opportunities to develop skills and to discuss and critically evaluate complex relationship scenarios
- cover a range of topics, including topics related to abusive behaviour

Different forms of abuse will be addressed sensitively and clearly at appropriate ages. For pupils who are experiencing or have experienced unhealthy or unsafe relationships, including at home, the school has an important role as a place of consistency and safety where pupils can find support.

6.4 Health and Wellbeing

The aim of teaching about health and wellbeing is to enable pupils to make good decisions about their own health and wellbeing, to understand the links between physical and mental health, to recognise when things are not right in their own health or the health of others and to seek support when needed. The school will support pupils to develop strategies for self-regulation, perseverance and determination, even in the face of setbacks.

Effective teaching will aim to reduce stigma attached to health issues, in particular relating to mental health, and discourage the pejorative use of language related to ill health. The school will promote openness, so that pupils can check their understanding and seek any necessary help and advice.

Curriculum content related to puberty and menstruation will be complemented by sensitive arrangements to help girls prepare for and manage menstruation, including with requests for period products. The school will use appropriate language such as 'period pads' and 'menstrual products' instead of sanitary items or feminine hygiene products.

Health and wellbeing: Primary

See Appendix 3 for full topic content

Health Education in primary starts with the benefits and importance of physical activity, good nutrition and sufficient sleep, and supports pupils to develop emotional awareness. The school will emphasise the relationships between physical health and mental wellbeing, and the benefits of physical activity and time spent outdoors. As in all of RSHE, care will be taken to avoid exposing pupils to concepts which is appropriate for them.

Health and Wellbeing: Secondary

Starting in primary school, the curriculum includes recognising and talking about emotions, looking after one's own and others' wellbeing, being worried about friendships, other relationships, and judging whether feelings or behaviour require support. Staff will have discussed isolation, loneliness and bullying, and how to cope when things go wrong in life. It is also important to ensure pupils understand how to seek help from a trusted adult, including when they are concerned about another person.

The secondary school will continue to build on the primary Health and Wellbeing curriculum content, supporting pupils to understand their changing bodies and their feelings, how to protect their own health and wellbeing, and when a physical or mental health issue requires attention.

Suicide Prevention, Self-Harm, and Eating Disorders

These topics can be taught in secondary schools in a safe and sensitive way but are specialised areas.

Many aspects of suicide prevention and self-harm are addressed through the mental wellbeing curriculum. The school will consider carefully when it is suitable to deliver suicide prevention content, taking into account the age, maturity, and personal experiences of pupils, recognising that pupils' emotional and cognitive maturity to understand this material increases across the early secondary years.

The school will consult mental health professionals and put in place both high quality, evidence-based staff training before addressing suicide directly with secondary aged pupils, to ensure that staff have the knowledge and skills to do this safely.

Staff will:

- use language and content that is accurate, straightforward and appropriate to the level of understanding of the class
- take particular care not to discuss instructions or methods of self-harm or suicide
- avoid using emotive language, videos or images as there is a risk this could signpost pupils towards dangerous ideas and online content of which they may not previously have been aware

- use high-quality teaching material

The school will take a similar approach to addressing eating disorders, ensuring that staff have the knowledge and skills to do this safely. Staff will take care to avoid language which romanticises these behaviours, and avoid discussing instructions, methods or ideas of restriction, bingeing or purging.

If staff have concerns about a specific pupil in relation to self-harm and/or suicidal ideation or attempts, and/or eating disorders, or a pupil/another pupil discloses information that may mean that they have been/are at risk of harm, they will follow the procedures outlined in the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

7. Safeguarding

For more information, please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

7.1 New and/or emerging risks/issues

The school will maintain a relevant and responsive curriculum to ensure that any particular, new, and/or emerging risks or issues that are affecting the pupils in the school (locally or nationally) are addressed and responded to in a timely manner so that the pupils are kept as safe as possible on/offline. Where appropriate, the school will work with local partners and other bodies to understand specific local issues/risks.

The school reserves the right to adapt the curricula and to vary resources as and when necessary to respond to the above risks/issues. However, the school will inform parents/carers in advance of any deviation from our published RSHE policy, including the reasons why they are covering this content, and will share any relevant materials with them on request in advance of the planned sessions.

Managing Questions

Confidentiality arrangements must be clearly explained to pupils prior to sessions, and where they can report any concerns and seek help, including to external services. Pupils are regularly reminded about who to contact if they would like to talk, for example: e.g. the School Nurse, Counsellors, ELSA, School Nurse, Safeguard Team, Form Tutors, Heads of Year, Heads of School. Telephone numbers or websites of relevant supporting agencies and organisations are displayed in lessons where appropriate.

All teaching will be age appropriate and respectful of all pupils, including those who may have no familiarity with the topics under discussion. Pupils will be introduced to protective and preventative content in a way that does not cause unreasonable alarm and does not appear to normalise risky behaviours or activities. When teaching sensitive topics, staff will use approaches such as distancing techniques, setting ground rules with the class to help manage sensitive discussion, and using question boxes to allow pupils to raise issues anonymously.

Pupils will be made to feel that they are able to ask any question they wish and that their questions are valued. However, consideration is given to staff responses to ensure they are appropriate to prior learning and readiness of pupils. For example, pupils may ask questions about topics which go beyond any sex education covered by the school or relate to sex education from which they have been withdrawn. In handling these situations, the emphasis will always be on supporting the pupil, recognising that those whose questions go unanswered might instead turn to inappropriate sources of information, including online. Support offered by staff may include speaking to them about their question following the session, asking them to speak to their parents/carers, and/ or gaining support from the DSL/DDSL. Staff can ask a pupil to wait for an answer to a question if they need time to consult with the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL).

Managing Disclosures

The nature and content of lessons at times means pupils may share information of a personal nature. Staff are aware that effective RSHE including the discussion of more sensitive topics, brings an understanding to pupils of what is and what is not appropriate, and that this can lead to a disclosure of a safeguarding or child protection issue. Any safeguarding concerns arising from something that a pupil has disclosed/asked will be managed according to the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

Mandatory Reporting

Staff will be aware of mandatory reporting duties according to the country in which their school is located.

Staff will be aware of mandatory reporting duties, including relating to FGM, and that virginity testing and hymenoplasty became illegal in 2022.

Under the Crime and Policing Act \(2026\) there is now a mandatory reporting duty for staff in regard to reporting concerns about child sexual abuse.

The duty requires those taking part in regulated activity to make a report if they:

- are told about child sexual abuse, either by a child or an adult involved
- witness child sexual abuse in person
- see or hear it in the form of images, videos or audio recordings

8. Monitoring and evaluation arrangements

The delivery of our RSHE programme is monitored and evaluated by the following:

8.1 Monitoring

Observations of RSHE lessons are undertaken by the Sectional Heads of PSHE in the form of:

- Learning walks and lesson observations by the Head of PSHE/RSE and senior leaders.
- Scrutiny of planning, schemes of work and curriculum resources to ensure statutory content is covered and appropriately sequenced.
- Review of pupils' work and assessment evidence to check consistency, progression and curriculum coverage.
- Monitoring the use of agreed teaching approaches, including safe classroom practice and appropriate handling of sensitive topics.
- Review of staff confidence, training needs and adherence to safeguarding procedures.
- Checking the suitability and quality of external speakers, organisations and resources used to support delivery.

8.2 Evaluating

When evaluating the use and impact of this policy, our school leaders will evaluate the extent to which there is evidence of a curriculum which;

- Fulfils the aims of the school
- Embeds aspiration, attributes and the expectation to achieve high standards and high rates of progress
- Provides engagement and excitement for learning

Evaluations of RSHE lessons are undertaken by Sectional Heads of PSHE in the form of:

- Pupil voice, surveys and focus groups to assess how relevant, inclusive and useful pupils find the curriculum.
- Review of baseline and end-of-unit assessment to evaluate progress in pupils' knowledge, understanding and skills.
- Staff feedback on the effectiveness of curriculum content, resources and sequencing.
- Analysis of safeguarding, pastoral and wellbeing themes to identify whether curriculum provision is responding effectively to emerging pupil needs.
- Parent feedback, where appropriate, to inform review of the programme.
- Annual review of curriculum impact by the Head of PSHE/RSE, with findings used to identify strengths, areas for development, staff training priorities and future curriculum changes.

Downsend monitors the quality and consistency of PSHE/RSE delivery and evaluates its effectiveness and impact on pupils. Findings from both processes are used to inform ongoing curriculum development, staff training and improvement planning.

9. Right to withdraw

See Appendix 1 for Right to Withdraw Form

Parents/carers do not have the right to withdraw their child from relationships and health education. However, the School recognises that parents/carers have the final decision about their child's sex education in the Primary stage of education.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the non-statutory/non-science components of sex education (only) within RSHE up to and until 3 terms before the child turns 16 and the Headteacher must automatically grant their request.

Alternative work must be given to pupils who are withdrawn from sex education. This must be appropriate and purposeful.

After that point, if their child wishes to receive sex education rather than be withdrawn (even if the parents/carers have requested withdrawal) the school will make arrangements to provide the pupil with sex education during one of those terms.

Schools should ensure that pupils know they have this option.

In secondary schools, Headteachers/Principals can refuse a request in exceptional circumstances, for example because of safeguarding concerns or a pupil's specific vulnerability*.

The process is the same for pupils with SEND. There may be exceptional circumstances where the Headteacher may wish to take a pupil's specific needs arising from their SEND into account when making the decision.

*Should there be any Safeguarding concerns that arise from, or are linked to the parents/carers request to withdraw their child, the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy will apply, and consideration may be given to seeking advice from the local children's services.

Step 1:

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing by the parents/carers using the form found in Appendix 1 of this policy and addressed to the Headteacher. The copy of the withdrawal request will be placed in the pupil's educational record.

Step 2:

Before granting any request for withdrawal of a pupil from sex education, the Headteacher will discuss the request with the pupil's parents/carers (and the pupil if appropriate) to understand their request and to clarify the nature and purpose of the curriculum. This is likely to include discussing the benefits of sex education, and any detrimental effects of withdrawal, including social and emotional impacts on their child, and the likelihood that their child will hear their peers' version of what was said in class, which may not be accurate.

The Headteacher must document this process to ensure a record is kept.

Step 3:

Once those discussions have taken place, if the parents/carers still wish to withdraw their child, the Headteacher must grant their request to withdraw a pupil from any sex education delivered, other than as part of the science curriculum.

Appendix 2 Primary Relationships Education: curriculum content

Families and people who care for me

1. That families are important for children growing up safe and happy because they can provide love, security and stability.
2. The characteristics of safe and happy family life, such as commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.
3. That the families of other children, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care.
4. That stable, caring relationships are at the heart of safe and happy families and are important for children's security as they grow up.
5. That marriage and civil partnerships represent a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong.
6. How to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed.

Caring friendships

1. How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
2. That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. Pupils should learn skills for developing caring, kind friendships.
3. That not every child will have the friends they would like at all times, that most people feel lonely sometimes, and that there is no shame in feeling lonely or talking about it.
4. The characteristics of friendships that lead to happiness and security, including mutual respect, honesty, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences, and support with problems and difficulties.
5. That most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened.
6. How to manage conflict, and that resorting to violence is never right.
7. How to recognise when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, and how to get support when needed

Respectful Kind Relationships

1. How to pay attention to the needs and preferences of others, including in families and friendships. Pupils should be encouraged to discuss how we balance the needs and wishes of different people in relationships and why this can be complicated.

2. The importance of setting and respecting healthy boundaries in relationships with friends, family, peers and adults.
3. How to communicate effectively and manage conflict with kindness and respect; how to be assertive and express needs and boundaries; how to manage feelings, including disappointment and frustration.
4. Pupils should have opportunities to discuss the difference between being assertive and being controlling, and conversely the difference between being kind to other people and neglecting your own needs.
5. That they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and the importance of respecting others, including those who are different (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices, or have different preferences or beliefs.
6. Practical steps they can take and skills they can develop in a range of different contexts to improve or support their relationships.
7. The conventions of courtesy and manners.
8. The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. Pupils should have opportunities to think about how they foster their own self-esteem and build a strong sense of their own identity, including through developing skills and interests.
9. The different types of bullying (including online bullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult), and how to get help.
10. What a stereotype is, how stereotypes can be unfair, negative, destructive or lead to bullying and how to challenge a stereotype.
11. How to seek help when needed, including when they are concerned about violence, harm, or when they are unsure who to trust.

Online safety and awareness

1. That people should be respectful in online interactions, and that the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including where people are anonymous. For example, the importance of avoiding putting pressure on others to share information and images online, and strategies for resisting peer pressure.
2. How to critically evaluate their online relationships and sources of information, including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met. For example, that people sometimes behave differently online, including pretending to be someone else, or pretending to be a child, and that this can lead to dangerous situations. How to recognise harmful content or harmful contact, and how to report this.
3. That there is a minimum age for joining social media sites (currently 13), which protects children from inappropriate content or unsafe contact with older social media users, who may be strangers, including other children and adults.
4. The importance of exercising caution about sharing any information about themselves online.

Understanding the importance of privacy and location settings to protect information online.

5. Online risks, including that any material provided online might be circulated, and that once a picture or words has been circulated there is no way of deleting it everywhere and no control over where it ends up.
6. That the internet contains a lot of content that can be inappropriate and upsetting for children, and where to go for advice and support when they feel worried or concerned about something they have seen or engaged with online.

Being Safe

1. What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including online). This can include learning about boundaries in play and in negotiations about space, toys, books, resources etc.
2. The concept of privacy and its implications for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
3. That each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe contact, including physical contact.
4. How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online), including those they do and do not know.
5. How to recognise when a relationship is harmful or dangerous, including skills for recognising who to trust and who not to trust.
6. How to report abuse, concerns about something seen online or experienced in real life, or feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
7. How to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard. Where to get advice e.g. family, school and/or other sources.

Appendix 3 Secondary Relationships and Sex Education: curriculum content

The Schools will continue to develop knowledge of topics specified for primary as required and in addition cover the following content by the end of secondary:

Families

1. That there are different types of committed, stable relationships.
2. How these relationships might contribute to wellbeing, and their importance for bringing up children.
3. Why marriage or civil partnership is an important relationship choice for many couples. The legal status of marriage and civil partnership, including that they carry legal rights, benefits and protections that are not available to couples who are cohabiting or who have, for example, undergone a non-legally binding religious ceremony.
4. That 'common-law marriage' is a myth, and cohabitants do not obtain marriage-like status or rights from living together or by having children.
5. That forced marriage and marrying before the age of 18 are illegal.
6. How families and relationships change over time, including through birth, death, separation and new relationships.
7. The roles and responsibilities of parents with respect to raising children, including the characteristics of successful parenting and the importance of the early years of a child's life for brain development.
8. How to judge when a relationship is unsafe and where to seek help when needed, including when pupils are concerned about violence, harm, or when they are unsure who to trust.

Respectful Relationships

1. The characteristics of positive relationships of all kinds, online and offline, including romantic relationships. For example, pupils should understand the role of consent, trust, mutual respect, honesty, kindness, loyalty, shared interests and outlooks, generosity, boundaries, tolerance, privacy, and the management of conflict, reconciliation and ending relationships.
2. How to evaluate their impact on other people and treat others with kindness and respect, including in public spaces and including strangers. Pupils should understand the legal rights and responsibilities regarding equality, and that everyone is unique and equal.
3. The importance of self-esteem, independence and having a positive relationship with oneself, and how these characteristics support healthy relationships with others. This includes developing one's own interests, hobbies, friendship groups, and skills. Pupils should understand what it means to be treated with respect by others.
4. What tolerance requires, including the importance of tolerance of other people's beliefs.
5. The practical steps pupils can take and skills they can develop to support respectful and kind relationships. This includes skills for communicating respectfully within relationships and with strangers, including in situations of conflict.

6. The different types of bullying (including online bullying), the impact of bullying, the responsibilities of bystanders to report bullying and how and where to get help.
7. Skills for ending relationships or friendships with kindness and managing the difficult feelings that endings might bring, including disappointment, hurt or frustration.
8. The role of consent, including in romantic and sexual relationships. Pupils should understand that ethical behaviour goes beyond consent and involves kindness, care, attention to the needs and vulnerabilities of the other person, as well as an awareness of power dynamics. Pupils should understand that just because someone says yes to doing something, that doesn't automatically make it ethically ok.
9. How stereotypes, in particular stereotypes based on sex, gender reassignment, race, religion, sexual orientation or disability, can cause damage (e.g. how they might normalise non-consensual behaviour or encourage prejudice). Pupils should be equipped to recognise misogyny and other forms of prejudice.
10. How inequalities of power can impact behaviour within relationships, including sexual relationships. For example, how people who are disempowered can feel they are not entitled to be treated with respect by others or how those who enjoy an unequal amount of power might, with or without realising it, impose their preferences on others.
11. How pornography can negatively influence sexual attitudes and behaviours, including by normalising harmful sexual behaviours and by disempowering some people, especially women, to feel a sense of autonomy over their own body and providing some people with a sense of sexual entitlement to the bodies of others.
12. Pupils should have an opportunity to discuss how some sub-cultures might influence our understanding of sexual ethics, including the sexual norms endorsed by so-called "involuntary celibates" (incels) or online influencers.

Online safety and awareness

1. Rights, responsibilities and opportunities online, including that the same expectations of behaviour apply in all contexts, including online.
2. Online risks, including the importance of being cautious about sharing personal information online and of using privacy and location settings appropriately to protect information online. Pupils should also understand the difference between public and private online spaces and related safety issues.
3. The characteristics of social media, including that some social media accounts are fake, and / or may post things which aren't real / have been created with AI. That social media users may say things in more extreme ways than they might in face-to-face situations, and that some users present highly exaggerated or idealised profiles of themselves online.
4. Not to provide material to others that they would not want to be distributed further and not to pass on personal material which is sent to them. Pupils should understand that any material provided online might be circulated, and that once this has happened there is no way of controlling where it ends up. Pupils should understand the serious risks of sending material to others, including the law concerning the sharing of images.

5. That keeping or forwarding indecent or sexual images of someone under 18 is a crime, even if the photo is of themselves or of someone who has consented, and even if the image was created by the child and/or using AI generated imagery. Pupils should understand the potentially serious consequences of acquiring or generating indecent or sexual images of someone under 18, including the potential for criminal charges and severe penalties including imprisonment. Pupils should know how to seek support and should understand that they will not be in trouble for asking for help, either at school or with the police, if an image of themselves has been shared. Pupils should also understand that sharing indecent images of people over 18 without consent is a crime.
6. What to do and how to report when they are concerned about material that has been circulated, including personal information, images or videos, and how to manage issues online.⁹
7. About the prevalence of deepfakes including videos and photos, how deepfakes can be used maliciously as well as for entertainment, the harms that can be caused by deepfakes and how to identify them.
8. That the internet contains inappropriate and upsetting content, some of which is illegal, including unacceptable content that encourages misogyny, violence or use of weapons. Pupils should be taught where to go for advice and support about something they have seen online. Pupils should understand that online content can present a distorted picture of the world and normalise or glamorise behaviours which are unhealthy and wrong.
9. That social media can lead to escalations in conflicts, how to avoid these escalations and where to go for help and advice.
10. How to identify when technology and social media is used as part of bullying, harassment, stalking, coercive and controlling behaviour, and other forms of abusive and/or illegal behaviour and how to seek support about concerns.
11. That pornography, and other online content, often presents a distorted picture of people and their sexual behaviours and can negatively affect how people behave towards sexual partners. This can affect pupils who see pornographic content accidentally as well as those who see it deliberately. Pornography can also portray misogynistic behaviours and attitudes which can negatively influence those who see it.
12. How information and data is generated, collected, shared and used online.
13. That websites may share personal data about their users, and information collected on their internet use, for commercial purposes (e.g. to enable targeted advertising).
14. That criminals can operate online scams, for example using fake websites or emails to extort money or valuable personal information. This information can be used to the detriment of the person or wider society. About risks of sextortion, how to identify online scams relating to sex, and how to seek support if they have been scammed or involved in sextortion.
15. That AI chatbots are an example of how AI is rapidly developing, and that these can pose risks by creating fake intimacy or offering harmful advice. It is important to be able to critically think about new types of technology as they appear online and how they might pose a risk.

Being Safe

1. How to recognise, respect and communicate consent and boundaries in relationships, including in early romantic relationships (in all contexts, including online) and early sexual relationships that might involve kissing or touching. That kindness and care for others requires more than just consent.
2. That there are a range of strategies for identifying, resisting and understanding pressure in relationships from peers or others, including sexual pressure, and how to avoid putting pressure on others.
3. How to determine whether other children, adults or sources of information are trustworthy, how to judge when a relationship is unsafe (and recognise this in the relationships of others); how to seek help or advice, including reporting concerns about others, if needed.
4. How to increase their personal safety in public spaces, including when socialising with friends, family, the wider community or strangers. Pupils should learn ways of seeking help when needed and how to report harmful behaviour. Pupils should understand that there are strategies they can use to increase their safety, and that this does not mean they will be blamed if they are victims of harmful behaviour. Pupils might reflect on the importance of trusting their instincts when something doesn't feel right and should understand that in some situations a person might appear trustworthy but have harmful intentions.
5. What constitutes sexual harassment or sexual violence, and that such behaviour is unacceptable, emphasising that it is never the fault of the person experiencing it.
6. That sexual harassment includes unsolicited sexual language / attention / touching, taking and/or sharing intimate or sexual images without consent, public sexual harassment, pressuring other people to do sexual things, and upskirting.
7. The concepts and laws relating to sexual violence, including rape and sexual assault.
8. The concepts and laws relating to harmful sexual behaviour, which includes all types of sexual harassment and sexual violence among young people but also includes other forms of concerning behaviour like using age-inappropriate sexual language.
9. The concepts and laws relating to domestic abuse, including controlling or coercive behaviour, emotional, sexual, economic or physical abuse, and violent or threatening behaviour.¹⁰
10. That fixated, obsessive, unwanted and repeated behaviours can be criminal, and where to get help if needed.
11. The concepts and laws relating to harms which are exploitative, including sexual exploitation, criminal exploitation and abuse, grooming, and financial exploitation.
12. The concepts and laws relating to forced marriage.
13. The physical and emotional damage which can be caused by female genital mutilation (FGM), virginity testing and hymenoplasty, where to find support, and the law around these areas. This should include that it is a criminal offence for anyone to perform or assist in the performance of FGM, virginity testing or hymenoplasty, in the UK or abroad, or to fail to protect a person under 16 for whom they are responsible.
14. That strangulation and suffocation are criminal offences, and that strangulation (applying pressure to the neck) is an offence, regardless of whether it causes injury. That any activity that involves applying force or pressure to someone's neck or covering someone's mouth and nose is dangerous and can lead to serious injury or death.

15. That pornography presents some activities as normal which many people do not and will never engage in, some of which can be emotionally and/or physically harmful.
16. How to seek support for their own worrying or abusive behaviour or for worrying or abusive behaviour they have experienced from others, including information on where to report abuse, and where to seek medical attention when required, for example after an assault.

Intimate and sexual relationships, including sexual health

1. That sex, for people who feel ready and are over the age of consent, can and should be enjoyable and positive.
2. The law about the age of consent, that they have a choice about whether to have sex, that many young people wait until they are older, and that people of all ages can enjoy intimate and romantic relationships without sex.
3. Sexual consent and their capacity to give, withhold or remove consent at any time, even if initially given, as well as the considerations that people might take into account prior to sexual activity, e.g. the law, faith and family values. That kindness and care for others require more than just consent.
4. That all aspects of health can be affected by choices they make in sex and relationships, positively or negatively, e.g. physical, emotional, mental, sexual and reproductive health and wellbeing.
5. That some sexual behaviours can be harmful.
6. The facts about the full range of contraceptive choices, efficacy and options available, including male and female condoms, and signposting towards medically accurate online information about sexual and reproductive health to support contraceptive decision-making.
7. That there are choices in relation to pregnancy. Pupils should be given medically and legally accurate and impartial information on all options, including keeping the baby, adoption, abortion and where to get further help.
8. How the different sexually transmitted infections (STIs), including HIV, are transmitted. How risk can be reduced through safer sex (including through condom use). The use and availability of the HIV prevention drugs Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) and Post Exposure Prophylaxis (PEP) and how and where to access them. The importance of, and facts about, regular testing and the role of stigma
9. The prevalence of STIs, the short- and long-term impact they can have on those who contract them and key facts about treatment.
10. How the use of alcohol and drugs can lead people to take risks in their sexual behaviour.
11. How and where to seek support for concerns around sexual relationships including sexual violence or harms.
12. How to counter misinformation, including signposting towards medically accurate information and further advice, and where to access confidential sexual and reproductive health advice and treatment.

Appendix 4

Primary Health and Wellbeing: curriculum content

General wellbeing

1. The benefits of physical activity, time outdoors, and helping others for health, wellbeing and happiness. Simple self-care techniques, including the importance of rest, time spent with friends and family, as well as hobbies, interests and community participation.
2. The importance of promoting general wellbeing and physical health.
3. The range and scale of emotions (e.g. happiness, sadness, anger, fear, surprise, nervousness) that they might experience in different situations. Pupils should understand that worrying and feeling down are normal, affect everyone at different times, and are not in themselves a sign of a mental health condition.
4. How to recognise feelings and use varied vocabulary to talk about their own and others' feelings.
5. How to judge whether what they are feeling and how they are behaving is appropriate and proportionate.
6. That isolation and loneliness can affect children, and the benefits of seeking support.
7. That bullying (including cyberbullying) has a negative and often lasting impact on mental wellbeing and how to seek help for themselves or others.
8. That change and loss, including bereavement, can provoke a range of feelings, that grief is a natural response to bereavement, and that everyone grieves differently.
9. Where and how to seek support (including recognising the triggers for seeking support), including who in school they should speak to if they are worried about their own or someone else's mental wellbeing or ability to control their emotions (including issues arising online).
10. That it is common to experience mental health problems, and early support can help.

Wellbeing online

1. That for almost everyone the internet is an integral part of life. Pupils should be supported to think about positive and negative aspects of the internet.
2. Pupils should be supported to discuss how online relationships can complement and support meaningful in-person relationships, but also how they might be in tension, and the reasons why online relationships are unlikely to be a good substitute for high quality in-person relationships, looking at the pros and cons of different ways of using online connection.
3. The benefits of limiting time spent online, the risks of excessive time spent on electronic devices and the impact of positive and negative content online on their own and others' mental and physical wellbeing.

4. How to consider the impact of their online behaviour on others, and how to recognise and display respectful behaviour online.
5. Why social media, some apps, computer games and online gaming, including gambling sites, are age restricted.
6. The risks relating to online gaming, video game monetisation, scams, fraud and other financial harms, and that gaming can become addictive.
7. How to take a critical approach to what they see and read online and make responsible decisions about which content, including content on social media and apps, is appropriate for them.
8. That abuse, bullying and harassment can take place online and that this can impact wellbeing. How to seek support from trusted adults.
9. How to understand the information they find online, including from search engines, and know how information is selected and targeted.
10. That they have rights in relation to sharing personal data, privacy and consent.
11. Where and how to report concerns and get support with issues online.

Physical health and fitness

1. The characteristics and mental and physical benefits of an active lifestyle.
2. The importance of building regular physical activity into daily and weekly routines and how to achieve this; for example, walking or cycling to school, a daily active mile or other forms of regular, moderate and/or vigorous physical activity.
3. The risks associated with an inactive lifestyle, including obesity.
4. How and when to seek support including which adults to speak to in school if they are worried about their health.

Healthy Eating

1. What constitutes a healthy diet (including understanding calories and other nutritional content).
2. Understanding the importance of a healthy relationship with food.
3. The principles of planning and preparing a range of healthy meals.
4. The characteristics of a poor diet and risks associated with unhealthy eating (including, for example, obesity and tooth decay) and other behaviours (e.g. the impact of alcohol on diet or health).

Drugs, alcohol, tobacco and vaping

1. The facts about legal and illegal harmful substances and associated risks, including smoking, vaping, alcohol use and drug-taking.

This should include the risks of nicotine addiction, which are also caused by other nicotine products such as nicotine pouches.

Health protection and prevention

1. How to recognise early signs of physical illness, such as weight loss, or unexplained changes to the body.
2. About safe and unsafe exposure to the sun, and how to reduce the risk of sun damage, including skin cancer.
3. The importance of sufficient good quality sleep for health, the amount of sleep recommended for their age, and practical steps for improving sleep, such as not using screens in the bedroom. The impact of poor sleep on weight, mood and ability to learn.
4. About dental health and the benefits of good oral hygiene, including brushing teeth twice a day with fluoride toothpaste, cleaning between teeth, and regular check-ups at the dentist.
5. About personal hygiene and germs including bacteria, viruses, how they are spread and treated, and the importance of handwashing.
6. The facts and scientific evidence relating to vaccination and immunisation. The introduction of topics relating to vaccination and immunisation should be aligned with when vaccinations are offered to pupils.

Personal safety

1. About hazards (including fire risks) that may cause harm, injury or risk and ways to reduce risks.
2. How to recognise risk and keep safe around roads, railways, including level crossings, and water, including the water safety code.

Basic first aid

1. How to make a clear and efficient call to emergency services if necessary, including the importance of reporting incidents rather than filming them.
2. Concepts of basic first aid, for example dealing with common injuries and ailments, including head injuries.

Developing bodies

1. About growth and other ways the body can change and develop, particularly during adolescence. This topic should include the human lifecycle, and puberty should be discussed as a stage in this process.
2. The correct names of body parts, including the penis, vulva, vagina, testicles, scrotum, nipples. Pupils should understand that all of these parts of the body are private and have skills to understand and express their own boundaries around these body parts.

The facts about the menstrual cycle, including physical and emotional changes, whilst the average age of the onset of menstruation is twelve, periods can start at eight, so covering this topic before girls' periods start will help them understand what to expect and avoid distress.

Appendix 5

Secondary Health and Wellbeing: curriculum content

Schools should continue to develop knowledge of topics specified for primary as required and in addition cover the following content by the end of secondary.

Wellbeing Online

1. About the benefits of limiting time spent online, the risks of excessive time spent on electronic devices and the impact of positive and negative content online on their own and others' mental and physical wellbeing.
2. The similarities and differences between the online world and the physical world, including: the impact of unhealthy or obsessive comparison with others online (including through setting unrealistic expectations for body image); how people may curate a specific image of their life online; the impact that an over-reliance on online relationships, including relationships formed through social media, can have.
3. How to identify harmful behaviours online (including bullying, abuse or harassment) and how to report, or find support, if they have been affected by those behaviours.
4. The risks related to online gambling and gambling-like content within gaming, including the accumulation of debt.
5. How advertising and information is targeted at them and how to be a discerning consumer of information online, understanding the prevalence of misinformation and disinformation online, including conspiracy theories.
6. The risks of illegal behaviours online, including drug and knife supply or the sale or purchasing of illicit drugs online.
7. The serious risks of viewing online content that promote self-harm, suicide or violence, including how to safely report this material and how to access support after viewing it.

Mental wellbeing

1. How to talk about their emotions accurately and sensitively, using appropriate vocabulary.
2. The benefits and importance of physical activity, sleep, time outdoors, community participation and volunteering or acts of kindness for mental wellbeing and happiness.
3. That happiness is linked to being connected to others. Pupils should be supported to understand what makes them feel happy and what makes them feel unhappy, while recognising that loneliness can be for most people an inevitable part of life at times and is not something of which to be ashamed.
4. That worrying and feeling down are normal, can affect everyone at different times and are not in themselves a sign of a mental health condition, and that managing those feelings can be helped by seeing them as normal.
5. Characteristics of common types of mental ill health (e.g. anxiety and depression), including carefully presented factual information about the prevalence and characteristics of more serious mental health conditions. This should not be discussed in a way that encourages normal feelings to be labelled as mental health conditions.
6. How to critically evaluate which activities will contribute to their overall wellbeing.
7. Understanding how to overcome anxiety or other barriers to participating in fun, enjoyable or rewarding activities – that it's possible to overcome those barriers using coping strategies, and that finding the courage to participate in activities which initially feel challenging may decrease anxiety over time rather than increasing it.
8. That gambling can lead to serious mental health harms, including anxiety, depression, and suicide, and that some gambling products are more likely to cause these harms than others.
9. That the co-occurrence of alcohol/drug use and poor mental health is common and that the relationship is bi-directional: mental health problems can increase the risk of alcohol/drug use, and alcohol/drug use can trigger mental health problems or exacerbate existing ones.
10. That stopping smoking can improve people's mental health and decrease anxiety.

Physical health and fitness

1. The characteristics of a healthy lifestyle, including physical activity and maintaining a healthy weight, including the links between an inactive lifestyle and ill-health, including cardiovascular ill-health.
2. Factual information about the prevalence and characteristics of more serious health conditions.
3. That physical activity can promote wellbeing and combat stress.
4. The science relating to blood, organ and stem cell donation.

Healthy eating

1. How to maintain healthy eating and the links between a poor diet and health risks, including tooth decay, unhealthy weight gain, and cardiovascular disease.

2. The risks of unhealthy weight gain, including increased risks of cancer, type 2 diabetes and cardiovascular disease.
3. The impacts of alcohol on diet and unhealthy weight gain.

Drugs, alcohol, tobacco and vaping

1. The facts about which drugs are illegal, the risks of taking illegal drugs, including the increased risk of potent synthetic drugs being added to illegal drugs, the risks of illicit vapes containing drugs, illicit drugs and counterfeit medicines, and the potential health harms, including the link to poor mental health.
2. The law relating to the supply and possession of illegal substances.
3. The physical and psychological risks associated with alcohol consumption. What constitutes low risk alcohol consumption in adulthood, and the legal age of sale for alcohol in England. Understanding how to increase personal safety while drinking alcohol, including how to decrease the risks of having a drink spiked or of poisoning from potentially fatal substances such as methanol.
4. The physical and psychological consequences of problem-use of alcohol, including alcohol dependency.
5. The dangers of the misuse of prescribed and over-the-counter medicines.
6. The facts about the multiple serious harms from smoking tobacco (particularly the link to lung cancer and cardiovascular disease), the benefits of quitting and how to access support to do so.
7. The facts about vaping, including the harms posed to young people, and the role that vapes can play in helping adult smokers to quit.

Health protection and prevention, and understanding the healthcare system

1. Personal hygiene, germs and how they are spread, including bacteria and viruses, treatment and prevention of infection, and about antibiotics.
2. Dental health and the benefits of good oral hygiene, including brushing teeth twice a day with fluoride toothpaste and cleaning between teeth, reducing consumption of sugar-containing food and drinks, and regular check-ups at the dentist.
3. How and when to self-care for minor ailments, and the role of pharmacists as knowledgeable healthcare professionals.
4. The importance of taking responsibility for their own health, and the benefits of regular self-examination and screening.
5. The facts and scientific evidence relating to vaccination, immunisation and antimicrobial resistance. The introduction of topics relating to vaccination and immunisation should be aligned with when vaccinations are offered to pupils.
6. The importance of sufficient good-quality sleep for good health, the importance of screen-free time before bed and removing phones from the bedroom, and how a lack of sleep can affect weight, mood and ability to learn.

7. The importance of healthy behaviours before and during pregnancy, including the importance of pre-conception health, including taking folic acid. The importance of pelvic floor health. Information on miscarriage and pregnancy loss, and how to access care and support.
8. How to navigate their local healthcare system: what a GP is; when to use A&E / minor injuries; accessing sexual health and family planning clinics; the role of local pharmacies; and how to seek help via local third sector partners which may have specialist services.
9. The concept of Gillick competence. That the legal age of medical consent is 16. That before this, a child's parents will have responsibility for consenting to medical treatment on their behalf unless they are Gillick competent to take this decision for themselves. Pupils should understand the circumstances in which someone over 16 may not be deemed to have capacity to make decisions about medical treatment.

Personal Safety

1. How to identify risk and manage personal safety in increasingly independent situations, including around roads, railways – including level crossings - and water (including the water safety code), and in unfamiliar social or work settings (for example the first time a young person goes on holiday without their parents).
2. How to recognise and manage peer influence in relation to risk-taking behaviour and personal safety, including peer influence online and on social media.
3. How to develop key social and emotional skills that will increase pupils' safety from involvement in conflict and violence. These include skills to support self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills and responsible decision making, as well as skills to recognise and manage peer pressure.
4. Understanding which trusted adults they can talk to if pupils are worried about violence and/or knife crime.
5. The law as it relates to knives and violence. Content and examples should relate to the local context and avoid using fear as an educational tool. Children should be taught that carrying weapons is uncommon, and should not be scared into the perception that many young people are carrying knives (which can lead to the misconception that they need to carry a knife too).
6. The risks and signs that they may be at risk of grooming or exploitation, and how to seek help where there is a concern.

Basic first aid

1. Basic treatment for common injuries and ailments.
2. Life-saving skills, including how to administer CPR.
3. The purpose of defibrillators, when one might be needed and who can use them.

Note: Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation is usually best taught after 12 years old.

Developing bodies

1. The main changes which take place in males and females, and the implications for emotional and physical health.
2. The facts about puberty, the changing adolescent body, including brain development.
3. About menstrual and gynaecological health, including: what is an average period; period problems such as premenstrual syndrome; heavy menstrual bleeding; endometriosis; and polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS).
4. When to seek help from healthcare professionals.
5. The facts about reproductive health, including fertility and menopause, and the potential impact of lifestyle on fertility for men and women.

Appendix 6 Curriculum Resources

The UK Department for Education page brings together all existing information available to schools on the teaching of the RSHE curriculum. This includes parent guides and guidance in engaging parents on Relationships education.

- Schools may also wish to see a series of DfE sexual harassment webinars covering domestic abuse, pornography and sexual exploitation.
- Non-statutory framework for Citizenship KS 1 and 2 (Non-statutory programme of study). Schools may wish to draw on the statutory Citizenship programme of study for KS 3 and 4 in their planning.
- Oak National Academy, the independent provider of freely available online curriculum and lesson resources, are developing curriculum materials to make sure every school can access high-quality, compliant resources which will build on what is already available for schools.
- Example of a model RSHE curriculum produced in 2019 by the Catholic Education Service in conjunction with the Department for Education: the primary RSE Model Curriculum and secondary RSE Model Curriculum
